

Suicide

Suicide is at its core
and somethings more,
but at its core . . .
an expression of expectation

and much more,
but at its core . . .

Throughout life,
the Mind makes assumptions about what it does not know, and does not know about what assumptions it makes . . .

Yes,
the Mind makes assumptions
about what it does not know,
assumptions it makes . . . .

This a time when the mind in all its surface glory puts a final period on the mystery

and much more,
but at its core . . .
an expression of expectation,
where "reality" and desire miss this time around

where "reality" and desire profoundly miss this time around
