

This Place

Lift your eye to the star in the sky its the light of all life it's trying to show the way from our genes to the brain to find our way home and reinvent the human
in this place
to find our way home and reimagine the human

We know the feeling of our lives
sliding by with no time
let the universe crash
through the window of our minds feel the universe crashing through the window
of your mind

I've been crazy, I was baby blue then the galaxy came into view now I can always find something cool something new, if I get blue

it's dying
to show the way from our dreams to the brain
in this place, in this place
