

Times are different with us

Times are different with us, late nights peering across the way and puddle feet on rainy runs across the street, an hourkiss,
 or two and talks and talks

A journey under a northern sky and lost again, a constant pending trend

Times are different with us, with you